

RESEARCHERS Studying AGING at York:

Join us for the first AGING RESEARCH COLLABORATORY session hosted by YU-CARE to hear about and engage with each other about interdisciplinary research methods and methodologies for conducting aging research at York!

Presentation Title:

“Best practices for assessing cognitive decline in aging research”

March 31, 2021 | 2:30pm-3:30pm

Online via Zoom

All are welcome!

Click here to register

SPEAKERS

Sara Pishdadian is a PhD Candidate in Clinical Psychology, specializing in Clinical Neuropsychology at York University. Her dissertation work focuses on episodic and spatial memory processes in aging and in individuals with memory impairments, including mild cognitive impairment and hippocampal amnesia. She completed her M.A. in Clinical Psychology at York University and Honours BSc. in Psychology at the University of Toronto.